Smart Deck

Plenty of superb “al fresco” dining and lounging areas onboard Insignia make this yacht highly appealing to the charterer. On the Smart Deck, Insignia's outdoor fourteen seater table, shaded by the Beach Deck, is particularly attractive with a selection of comfortable furniture that can be moved around as required. On the same level, the upper saloon offers quiet relaxation, or at the press of a button transforms into an audio-visual theatre.

The image shows the main deck of the yacht INSIGNIA. The interior is elegantly furnished with light-colored leather sofas and a wooden coffee table. A central staircase with a curved design leads to the upper decks. The walls are finished with wood paneling, and the ceiling features recessed lighting. The overall atmosphere is warm and sophisticated.

Main Deck

A sweeping central staircase, which leads to the upper decks, separates the very large saloon from the more formal dining area whose exceptionally wide and inviting dining table seats 14 diners in armchair comfort. The elegant and vast interior is light and airy, an effect achieved by the use of large windows, neutral toned fabrics and special Tanganika wood furniture. Fluted columns of the same exotic wood provide an elegant theme that compliments the interior design. Designer Luiz de Basto chose a modern classic style that is gracious but not too formal. Generous use of fine Italian marbles is made throughout the yacht.

The spacious master suite is situated forward on the Main Deck, with spectacular and unobstructed panoramic views out to sea. Without moving from the king-sized bed, the occupants can admire the passing scenery on either side, or enjoy a television or video feature on the giant plasma screen which is concealed behind a remote-controlled retractable panel when not in use. The suite includes a comfortable walk-in closet, his-and-hers marble bathroom with central rain-shower spa, and separate office.

Guests Cabins

A flexible arrangement of guest staterooms can accommodate a wide variety of charter groups. Three of the staterooms, for instance, have a twin bed arrangement that can easily be changed to a king-sized bed. As well, the same guest staterooms each have an additional Pullman bed. Located in the lazarette area of the Lower Deck, a separate Sauna with a dressing-room and a shower room is also available to the guests.
